Death List Numbers at Least Twenty-three Railroad Officials Are Sure That the Train Was Derailed by Wreckers-Twentyone Bodies Recovered.

Birn ingham, Ala., Dec. 28.-Few further letails are obtainable as to the terrible railroad wreck at the Canaba River oridge yesterday.

The tailroad officials have a list of twenty-one dead, that number of bodies have been taken out of the river, but the belief gains ground that there are more dead bodies yet in the river, or else some were entirely consumed by fire. The rail-road officials, however, say the place has been thoroughly searched.

It seems impossible tenscertain how many passengers were on the train. Nearly all held round-trip holiday tickets and had been away from home to spend Christ-mas. Many were on their way back to a built dozen streams of water were thrown the various mining towns when the disaster occurred. Only one ticket was sold out of Birmingham for the ill-fated train. cremated alive. A further examination of the bridge shows that the spikes on one side had been drawn for a rail length, which in dicated that a rail was moved out of place to deliberately wreck the train. The story that three men robbed the dead and dying as told by one of the sorvivors has not yet been confimred. School Officials Showed That He Bore an Excellent Record as a Pupil - Manager Callum Testified of His Efforts to Have the Boy Released From the Reform School.

Testimony in the habens corpus case of Francis Eugene Barrows, the lad recently confined in the Reform School, was taken yesterday before Jedge Bingham after a lengthy discussion as to a hearing of the case on its merits, as reported in The Evening Times.

The first witness was Frank Barrowshim self. He told the story of his life briefly and without my strong reflections on the woman who claims to be his guardian. His statements were made principally in reply to questions of his counsel.

As near as he could remember his first years were spent with his father and mother at the St. Cloud Hotel, in New York. When about six years old he resided in the Renssalear flats, where his mother died in 1886. He and his father then went to live with Mrs. Barnes, now Mrs. Evans, who lived on Fiftieth street. In the carry part of 1888 his father died afterward Mrs. Rarnes again went to New York. This was in 1889, and her companion was a Mr George, with whom she Mrs. Barnes' Movements.

and Mrs. Evans moved to Washington. He was sent to school, but a few months

In the latter part of the same year she again came to Washington and in 1890 re-turned to New York with lawyer A. A. Brocke of this city. Frank went with her and so did Nannie Hoffman, a niece of Mrs. Barnes. The story of the disappear ance from this city of Nannie Hoffman was told some time ago in The Times. The lad said that after going out one day while they were living in Harlem he re torned home and found that Nannie had disappeared. The boy was asked as to his age, and said he knew he was six years old his mother died. In 1894 he returned with Mrs. Barnes to Washington. She had in the meantime married a man named Evans They went to live on Twelfth street and be went to school at the Force building He continued at that school until he was ready for the high school.

"I wanted to go to the high school," said the witness, "but Mrs. Barnes would not send me She said I must go to work helped Mr. Evans in his grocery stor but when he closed that out I had nothing Mrs. Evans insisted that I should look out for myself, and one day sie tolding I had to leave her house.

"Sign threatened to make me go to sea and once wanted me to go to Atlantic City and work in a saloon. I told ber if she would send me to the Naval Academy would go, but she wanted me to go a man-of-war. I finally got work with the Bulletin people but she compelled me to stop work there. Then I got employ ment with Supr. Callum at the District Messenger office."

The Boy's Arrest. Frank told of a visit to the office of Detective Sutton, who put him under ar rest, and how he cluded the detective by escaping out the back door, as he did not want to go back to the home of Mrs. Evans. She had driven him out and he was boarding with Mrs. Barrick, a few doors above his former home.

The lad described his capture at the office by Mrs. Evans, and said when she took him to her home she sent Mr. Evans out for a cab and then drove him to the reform school. On the way there she said if he would not talk too much and would keep his outh shut she would take him out in March and let him go to New York and Atlantic City with her-Mr. Walker wanted to know if Mrs. Evans told him how she would get him out, and Frank answered that Mrs. Evans said she had him put there through in fluence and would get him out the same

Principal Senjamin Murch of the Force chool gave evidence showing that Frank was a dutiful and intelligent scholar. It fact, Mr. Murch said, he considered the ind's conduct as excellent.

Secretary Falk of the board of trustees was put on the stand and exhibited th roll book of the second grade of the Blake school in 1888, which showed Frank Barrows registered there as a scholar at the age of eight years.

The Age of Barrows. This evidence was given to prove that Frank is at the present time sixteen years old and therefore beyond the age under which he could be committed to the reform school. The petitioner did not rest his case ere, but put on the stand Mr. W. J. Dwyer, publisher of the Bulletin, to show that Frank had left their employ of his own will and that Mrs. Evans had persecuted the boy by trying to get him discharged. Mrs. Barrick, whoresides near Mrs. Evans and with whom Frank boarded, gave the lad an excellent character. She said she took him in because he came there for a home and said he had been driven from his home with Mrs. Evans. Mrs. Barrick said she did not consider that Mrs. Evans was a proper guardian for Frank, and cited her sending him out after beer as one of the reasons for such a conclusion. She had seen Frank go to the restaurant with a pitcher and then go to the Evans home with it filled with beer. Robert G. Callum, manager of the Mutual District Messenger Company, was the principal witness on behalf of the petition. He said that a month's service in his employ would bring out any incorrigibility if it had been in the boy. He remembered that about a month after the boy went to work for the company Mrs. Evans came to him and gave Frank a very bad name She wanted him discharged, but finally said if he would only come home, she would not care about his working for th messenger company.

Mr. Callum said he would advise the boy to go home if she would treat him properly. A few days following this inter view she came to the office with some man and asked to see Frank. He saw the woman and started to get away from She Seized Frank. "I called to him," he testified, "and she

Reform School by a telephone message that I would never see him again." Mr. Callum said he called on Col. Clay the next day, and reported the facts the persecution of the boy, and asked for "I told him the boy had been inhumanely care of his bicycle. "Col. Clay said he would look into my complaint, but as I heard nothing, I sent a letter to the trustees, but received no reply. I sent another to Col. Clay, and finally got an answer, which I did not think satisfactory. I had had two interviews with Col. Clay, and at the second
